BRIEF ITEMS OF INTEREST ABOUT TOWN

Philip A. Cox of Frye Village is ill with pneumonia.

Andrew Batchelder and family will soon remove to Maple avenue.

James Scott of Summer street is confined to his home by illness.

Mrs. Etta Holmes of Lowell has been spending a few days at the home of George T. Abbott.

Harry G. Saunders has accepted a position as head shipper in the Acadia Coal Co.'s office, Stellarton, N. S.

Mrs. James H. Smith is confined to her home on Maple avenue by fractures received in a fall on Saturday.

George Smith of High street has gone to New Hampshire to the Twin Mountain House, where he will pass the summer.

The school committee met on last Tuesday evening and discussed the repair work which needs to be done in the various schools.

Walter Wrigley, formerly a resident of Andover, and now a teacher in Stoughton, was in town Saturday to attend the Exeter game.

Children's Sunday will be observed next Sunday at the Free church, with an interesting and appropriate program. The service will begin at six o'clock.

Mrs. Hiland F. Holt attended the annual meeting and luncheon of the Lucy Wheelock Kindergarten Alumnae association, Saturday, held at the Hotel Vendome, Boston.

Leon G. Saunders of Stevens Institute, N. J., has joined the Allagash trip, which includes the principal rivers and lakes of Maine. He reports good fishing in all the lakes.

Philip L. Hardy, a member of the graduating class at the Lowell Textile School which received its diploma on Friday afternoon, read a paper entitled "Economy Tests of 25 W. W. Kerr Turbo Generator Set."

Until further notice, meetings of Andover colony, U. O. P. F., will take place but once a month instead of twice, as formerly. The meeting night will be the last Friday evening in each month.

Roy E. Hardy has been chosen for membership in Alpha Delta Tau in Phillips Academy. This is an honorary scholarship society and is the highest recognition of scholarship in the school.

The Andover council, K. of C., attended the third degree and banquet on Wednesday evening, June 8, as guests of the Haverhill council, K. of C. The trip was made in special cars from the local lodge to attend.

Hope lodge, I. O. O. F., of Methuen will work the third degree on candidates from Andover, North Andover and Methuen on next Monday evening, June 13. A hearty invitation is extended to the local lodge to attend.

On Tuesday evening the South church Courteous circle held a very interesting meeting with the state secretary, Miss Brokenshire, as the guest of the evening. Miss Brokenshire related the work at "Gordon Rest," the home for invalids and sufferers which is supported by the King's Daughters. A social hour, in charge of the Sunshine Ten, followed, during which light refreshments were served.

The young men's club of the South church, together with their friends, were most delightfully entertained on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Melledge. About thirty young people were present. The piano and mandolin selections rendered by Mrs. John V. Holt, Harry Purington and Mrs. Ludwig Sjostrom of North Andover were much enjoyed, as were the ever-welcome songs sung by Mrs. F. G. Moore.

The Farther Lights of the Baptist church held their quarterly tea at the vestry last Monday evening. After enjoying a bountiful supper, and a little jollity which followed, the company carried out the program of the evening, on missionaries and their work in Burma. A map, showing, by stars, the number and location of mission stations, and a few pictures, helped to make clear the great work being done by the mission force in this far-off land.

Andover lodge, I. O. O. F., and Indian Ridge lodge will unite in a memorial service in the I. O. O. F. hall on Sunday afternoon, June 12, at three o'clock. The service will be conducted by Rev. F. R. Shipman and the R. C. O. A. quartet will render several selections. The quartet is composed of William MacCreadie, Edmund Hammond, Philip Hardy, and Frank Smith. The accompanist is Arthur Johnson. All members of the two lodges and their friends are cordially invited to be present.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the South church are to hold an entertainment and sale in the church vestries, on Friday evening, June 17. The program for the evening will include selections by the R. C. O. A. male quartet; readings by Miss Ethel Hinton of Lawrence; solos by Miss Mary Erving and Mrs. Austin Hitchcock; selections by a double quartet and by an orchestra. Ice cream, cake and candy will be for sale. Tickets, 25 cents. The proceeds of the sale are to go to Miss Mary Graffam for use her school in Turkey.

Miss O. W. Neal has gone to Stowe, Vt., for the summer.

Miss Emily Richards has returned from a lengthy stay abroad.

Mrs. Mary Hulse of Hyde Park is visiting at the home of T. E. Rhodes.

Harold Ludwig, a student in Pynchard school, has been visiting in Hull.

Mrs. Burton S. Flagg and children have gone to Kennebunk for the summer.

Rev. Henry L. Toole of Groveland preached at Christ church on Sunday morning.

A rehearsal of the degree staff of the Rebekahs will be held on Thursday evening.

Tomorrow evening the annual Draper musicale will be held at Abbot Academy.

J. Harold Melledge has been elected a trustee of the American Congregational association.

Garfield lodge, K. of P., held its semi-monthly meeting in A. O. U. W. hall on Monday evening.

Miss Natalie Schiefferdecker of Abbot Academy will sail for Germany the last of June.

A regular meeting of the Andover Village Improvement Society was held on Monday evening.

Ernest Woods, who has been spending several months in the south, returned to Andover this week.

C. E. Rhodes and family of Malden visited recently at the home of C. A. Jameson in West Andover.

The pupils of Miss Lucia G. Merrill will give a piano recital this evening at her home on Salem street.

Entries are rapidly being made for the K. O. K. A. track meet which will take place on the Phillips track on June 17.

The South church primary Sunday school teachers held a regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Evelyn Hardy on Maple avenue, on Monday evening.

Among the members of the graduating class at Lowell Textile School on Friday were the following from Andover: Philip L. Hardy and Wm. Anderson.

All members of Andover lodge, I. O. G. T., are requested to attend the next meeting of the order, which will be held in A. O. U. W. hall on Tuesday, June 14.

On Sunday morning Rev. George P. Knapp, a missionary from Harpoon, Turkey, preached at the West church. In the evening he gave an interesting talk at the South church.

The annual banquet of the New England Alumni of the Baltimore Medical College was held at Young's Hotel, Boston, Wednesday evening. Among the speakers was Dr. Conroy of this town, who addressed the meeting on the standard of admission to the medical schools. About two hundred members from all over New England were present.

Professor E. Y. Hincks and family attended the commencement exercises at Vassar college this week. Miss Sarah Hincks is a member of the graduating class. Miss Hincks, who is one of three New England girls whose names are on the honor list at Vassar, has been appointed teacher of English and History at Miss Wheeler's school in Providence.

The inter high school meet will take place on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, on the upper campus at Phillips Academy. Medals will be given for the first three places and a banner presented to the winning team, to be held one year. An admission fee will be charged. The following schools have thus far entered the meet: Lowell, Lawrence, Lynn, Wakefield, Pynchard, Newburyport, and North Andover.

WILLIAM S. PORTER

Ranked as Leading
Short Story WriterAUTHOR PORTER
DIES IN GOTHAMShort Story Writer Fails to

GAINED FAME AS "O. HENRY"

Misconceptions Concerning His Life
Corrected in an Interview in Which He Stated That He Was Never Engaged in Occupations With Which He Was Credited by Gossip—Writing a Drama When Stricken

New York, June 6.—William Sydney Porter, better known to the public by his pen name, "O. Henry," recognized as one of the leading short story writers of the age, died Sunday of cirrhosis of the liver.

An operation was performed by Dr. Hancock last Friday, but the condition of the author even at that time was considered hopeless by the surgeons.

Although the name of O. Henry has been famous for several years wherever the English language is read, the public has probably known less of the history of the author than of any other contemporary writer of equal prominence. In one of the few interviews that he ever gave Porter took occasion to correct several popular misconceptions of his life which arose from gossip and speculation about his career.

"I have heard that I was a miner. I never saw a mine," declared Porter. "It has been said that I have been a rancher, a sheep herder and a cowboy; the nearest I ever came to any of these occupations was when I spent a couple of years on the ranch of Lee Hall, the ranger, as a guest. I never took a tynotype picture and I never traveled as a tramp; I never rode a mile on a railroad unless it was in a Pullman car."

Mr. Porter was born in Greensboro, N. C., in 1867. It was during his boyhood that he went to the Hall ranch, but any ideas of ranching that he may have entertained at the beginning of the visit were abandoned when he saw the cattle dropping dead in a drought.

He then began to look around for an opportunity to cultivate his ambition for writing and obtained a position on the Houston Post. Within a year he was earning $25 a week, but he gave up the position to buy Brann's leonoclast at Austin, Tex.

The paper was rechristened the Rolling Stone, but it had a short life and Porter took a trip to Central America with a friend who was interested in the fruit business.

After idling about in the tropics for a time he returned to Texas, where he clerked in a drug store for two weeks. He then went to New Orleans and began writing short stories in earnest.

After his first few successes he came to New York city, and in late years he has commanded a high price for his writings. For the last few years his average short story has brought $750.

Mr. Porter had not been in good health for some time, but he persisted in laughing at the anxiety of his family and friends, and declared that there was no cause for worry. He had about decided, however, to go to North Carolina for the winter when he was stricken. He had delayed his trip south because he was engaged in writing a drama, "The World and the Door," which was to have been produced next winter.

Mr. Porter was married twice. He leaves a widow, and daughter by his first wife, who died several years ago.

Nothing For Brokers' Creditors
Boston, June 8.—That the 800 creditors of Sederquist, Barry & Co., bankrupt brokers, will receive nothing from their investments, was the statement at a special meeting for the allowance of claims at the office of Henry E. Warner, referee in bankruptcy.

STOPS AT THE ALTAR

Wedding Ceremony Interrupted by
Wife of Would-Be Bigamist

Fall River, Mass., June 7.—As Alois Wroblewski stood with 18-year-old Francesca Kot at the altar in the Polish Catholic church, and as he was about to make his solemn vow to cherish and protect the girl, a frantic, disheveled woman rushed down the aisle and forbade Father Stanislaus to pronounce the words, which, it is alleged, would have made Wroblewski a bigamist.

She declared that she was the lawful wife of Wroblewski, that she had married him many years ago in Austria and that he had deserted her to come to this country.

Her proofs were produced and examined by the priest. The young bride fell in a faint before the altar and the groom rushed from the church.

The police will bring a charge of perjury against Wroblewski, who swore when taking out the marriage license that he had never been married before.

MILK COMPANY FINED

Product Showed Millions of Bacteria
to the Cubic Metre

Boston, June 9.—The C. Brigham company, milk dealers, were arraigned in the South Boston court, charged with having an excessive amount of bacteria in their milk. The company was fined $50, introducing no evidence in defense. It is charged that the samples of their milk which was tested showed from 500,000 to 3,000,000 bacteria to the cubic metre.

Attorney Cusick read from a long prepared document statements to the effect that in his mind the court had no jurisdiction in the matter, that the defendant did not wish to appear and asking that the complaint be quashed for several reasons. The court, however, refused to quash.

ARTILLERYMEN IN
DASH FOR LIBERTYAlmost Half a Battery Objects
to Journey to Manila

Washington, June 7.—A sensational dash for shore liberty, in which, it is said, eighty men of Battery C, Second field artillery, outward bound from San Francisco to Manila on the transport Logan, participated, is being investigated by Captain Griffin, commanding the battery. Thirteen of the men, two having been taken from the city prison, have been placed in the transport's brig.

According to an official report almost half the battery, just at dusk, slipped from the ship without orders, carrying arms and wearing cartridge belts, scaled a high fence around the dock and scattered along the harbor front. Some who were unable to elude the dock guard dropped overboard and swam ashore. After several hours' search the last of the truants were rounded up.

PEARY SUE BY COOK

Action to Recover $10,000 Claimed
Due For Polar Products

Berlin, June 9.—According to the Lokal Anzeiger, Frederick A. Cook has instituted suit in the Berlin courts against Robert E. Peary. The paper says Cook seeks to recover $10,000 which he alleges to be due him in payment for bear skins and other polar products.

It is believed here that Cook sought retirement in the environs of Berlin when the cry of fraud was first raised against his claim that he was the discoverer of the Pole. He lived in a sanitarium under an assumed name, but was in close touch with the news of the great controversy through the newspapers. His discovery by a German reporter sent him fleeing from the country.

Home Course
In Domestic
ScienceIV.—Vegetables In the Diet.By EDITH G. CHARLTON,
In Charge of Domestic Economy, Iowa
State College.Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

THERE are three main reasons for cooking—viz, (1) to develop flavors and make foods more palatable, (2) to make some foods more digestible and (3) to kill germs. As a rule, simple methods for preparing foods are preferable because they preserve the original flavor. Vegetables, which will form the principal subject of this article, are better when cooked simply without the accompaniment of other ingredients.

In cooking any food the first great essential to success is to be accurate in method. Accuracy in measuring and combining ingredients with a knowledge of the effect of heat on different food materials, combined with interest in the task, can almost always be relied upon to insure a successful finished product. Indeed, it can be safely stated that there is no such thing as luck in cooking. Success depends upon a knowledge of certain physical and chemical phenomena which always occur under certain conditions. It is ignorance or lack of attention to these underlying principles which results in so many unsatisfactory and indigestible dishes being served on our tables.

Composition of Vegetables.
There are a variety of food materials which cannot be classed as nutritious, and yet they have a distinct value in the diet. For instance, fresh fruit and vegetables are not especially nourishing as far as making blood and muscle and giving heat and energy are concerned, but both should be given an important place in the daily bill of

COMPOSITION OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.
1. Composition of potato. 2. Composition of cabbage. 3. Composition of turnip. 4. Composition of carrot. 5. Composition of cucumber. 6. Composition of apple. 7. Composition of walnut.

fare. There are also some food materials which, while very nutritious, require a considerable effort on the part of the digestive organs to make them available for the body. So it is clear that one must know something about the structure, composition and food value of any material before it can be handled intelligently. Now, what about vegetables and their preparation for the table? Practically all green vegetables contain a large amount of water, with a smaller percentage of starch, a very little protein, some sugar, gum and woody fiber.

The older the vegetable the harder the woody fiber becomes until the vegetable which has been left in the ground till late in the season can be torn apart like coarse threads. It is this fiber which renders vegetables hard to digest and which necessitates cooking in order to soften it. Most vegetables contain some mineral matter and certain volatile essential oils which give them their characteristic flavor. If the cooking is not properly performed the essential oils may change in their character and the original flavor of the vegetable be destroyed.

Vegetables are useful in the diet for three reasons:

First.—The mineral salts are needed to keep the blood pure and for bone formation in the young. People who are denied fresh fruits and vegetables for any length of time are likely to develop certain skin diseases.

Second.—The woody fiber, just because of its indigestibility, has a value in the diet. It furnishes waste matter and ballast and assists the action of the intestines.

Third.—Some vegetables, such as potatoes and corn, are rich in starch and when eaten with the protein foods, such as meat, fish and eggs, serve to balance the diet.

Preparing Vegetables For the Table.

All green vegetables should be fresh and crisp when put on to cook. If for any reason a vegetable has become soft or withered it should be soaked in very cold water until it again becomes plump and crisp. All vegetables should be thoroughly cleaned before cooking. Cabbages, cauliflower and brussels sprouts should be soaked, heads turned down, in cold, salted water to which a few spoonfuls of vinegar may be added. If there are worms or bugs in the vegetable they will crawl out in half an hour or a little longer.

To be cooked properly vegetables require rapid cooking until tender. Salt is usually added to the water before the vegetable is put in, except in the case of potatoes, which are better if salted just before draining. It is always better to cook vegetables uncovered, as this allows the escape of gases formed in the cooking. If these are retained they give the vegetable a strong odor and flavor and are sometimes found to be injurious. We all know that cooked cabbage seems to be more difficult to digest than when eaten raw. This is because the kettle is generally kept closely covered and the gases do not escape. Cabbage contains a relatively large amount of sulphur, which makes it indigestible and will cause flatulence when improperly cooked. It is one of the most useful vegetables, being available almost any season of the year, when other green vegetables are difficult to procure. It is therefore worthy of care in its preparation to suit it to the individual tastes and appetites. The quickest and simplest methods of cooking it are the best. It requires plenty of boiling water, a hot fire to keep the water bubbling all the time and thorough ventilation, that the strong smelling gases may be carried off in the steam. Young cabbage will cook in twenty-five minutes. Late in the season it will require at least forty minutes. Overcooked cabbage is dark colored, has a strong flavor and is a cause of digestive disturbances. When the cabbage has been cooked until tender it may be served with only butter and a seasoning of pepper, or either of the following sauces:

Sauce No. 1.
One cupful of cream, one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, one tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of butter, one egg yolk and four tablespoonfuls of cheese. Melt butter, blend with dry ingredients; add cream. Cook until mixture thickens and pour gradually over egg yolks. Add grated cheese and allow to melt.

Sauce No. 2.
Serve with one-quarter cupful of melted butter, one tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar, three teaspoonfuls of worcestershire sauce and one tablespoonful of chopped pimiento or red pepper.

Universally as potatoes are served, there is no vegetable which is more often sent to the table absolutely unfit to eat. When kept in a closely covered vessel or allowed to cook in unbroken skins they will become soggy and dark and have a rank flavor. If put on in cold water or allowed to cook slowly so as to become water soaked the potatoes will be most unpalatable. Few vegetables are more popular or more delicious than a potato properly baked, while one that is heavy, watery or baked until the skin is thickened and toughened is sufficient to cause dissension in the family circle.

For baking select medium sized potatoes, scrub well and dry them. Bake in a shallow pan in a moderately hot oven until soft—about forty-five minutes. When soft press between the fingers to break the skin and allow the steam to escape.

Creamed Potatoes.
Wash, peel and cut in dice of uniform size two cupfuls of raw potatoes. Cook in boiling water until tender, adding salt just before draining. Drain, return uncovered to fire to dry off; then add one cupful of white sauce. Cold boiled potatoes may be used cut in dice and reheated in milk.

White Sauce.
Two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, one cupful of milk, one-fourth cupful of cheese, grated, and one tablespoonful of parsley. Melt butter, add flour and seasoning and when blended pour on milk gradually, stirring constantly until boiling.

Potato Salad.
Three cupfuls of cold boiled potatoes, four tablespoonfuls of oil, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful of onion, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper and two hard cooked eggs. Blend carefully and allow to stand on ice for one-half hour. Combine with boiled dressing. Chop whites and grate yolks.

Potato Apples.
Two cupfuls of hot mashed potatoes, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-third cupful of grated cheese, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne, a little grated nutmeg, two tablespoonfuls of thick cream and yolks of two eggs. Mix ingredients in order given and beat thoroughly. Shape as small apples. Roll in flour, egg and crumbs. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Insert a clove at both stem and blossom end.

There are numerous ways of preparing all vegetables; but, as previously stated, the simple methods are the best. The main point to remember is rapid cooking in constantly boiling water until tender.

Is it a Matter
of Cost?

If you think it is, you are wrong from the start.
THE EXPENSE OF A TELEPHONE IS NOT FIGURED BY WHAT IT COSTS FOR A WHOLE YEAR, BUT BY HOW MUCH IT SAVES EACH TIME IT IS USED.

CONSIDER THIS:

How many nickles do you leave at the "Pay Station" during the year?

How much time do you lose making the trip to the Pay Station?

How much money do you spend in twelve months for car fare, in shopping or delivering messages that you could send by telephone if you had one?

How much time and nerve force do you lose?

A few cents a day pays for a telephone and saves all this. Ask our Local Manager to send an Agent to talk the matter over with you.

CONDITIONS IN LYMAN SCHOOL

Legislature Asked to Conduct
Probe of Sweeping Nature

TREATMENT ACCORDED BOYS

Alleged to Be So Intolerable as to Drive a Fourteen-Year-Old Inmate
to Suicide—Order Asks That Committee Place Responsibility For the Act and Find Out Whether Punishment is Unduly Severe

Boston, June 9.—The house of representatives is to be asked to start an investigation of conditions in the Lyman industrial school at Westboro
as the result of the suicide of John Newman, 14 years old, at that institution.

The order providing for the investigation was introduced by Representative Mellen of Worcester. It is one of the most comprehensive orders
submitted to the present legislature,
providing as it does for an investigation of the entire system of corporal punishment in use in the institution.

The demand for an investigation is the outcome of the revelations of two years ago, when it was found that boys in the institution had been punished with the end of rubber hose.

The order is as follows:
"That it is the sense of the house
of representatives that conditions tending to drive a 14-year-old boy to suicide as a means of finding relief
from conditions at the Lyman school
are too intolerable to be countenanced
by the commonwealth.

"That a committee of five members of the house, to be chosen by the speaker, shall be appointed to investigate the suicide of John Newman of Cambridge at the Lyman school for boys on the evening of June 7. Said committee shall ascertain the treatment accorded to boys committed to said institution, whether or not it is unduly severe, the extent to which corporal punishment is resorted to,
whether or not other methods of punishment are made use of by the authorities there, and for what cause punishment of any kind is meted out to the inmates of the school.

"Full information shall be secured
as to what constitutes an infraction of the rules, the extent to which the superintendent controls the situation,
and the power given to his subordinates.

"The report shall include a description of the implements used in inflicting punishment upon the inmates, and the number of blows allowed by the rules for each particular infraction.

"The committee shall be allowed to incur expenses of $500 in the investigation, and to summon witnesses. The report is to be made by the committee as soon as possible, recommending what action is necessary,
in the case of the suicide of John Newman, fixing the responsibility for that act, and also shall recommend what action, if any, is necessary to remove any suspicion of barbarity that may exist in the methods of punishment in vogue at the Lyman school."

NORTON TAKES UP DUTIES

He Becomes "Assistant President of the United States"

Washington, June 7.—Charles D.
Norton, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury, yesterday assumed his new duties as secretary to the president. He received many congratulations during the day and found on his desk an immense vase of American Beauty roses, which was sent by some of his Chicago friends.

A large number of senators and representatives called to see the president, and stopped in to shake hands with Norton and wish him success.

GIRL CAPTURES BURGLAR

Wields Seltzer Bottle and Tumbler
With Pronounced Success

New York, June 6.—Unmindful of a revolver which he leveled at her, Freda Dolinsky, aged 20, tackled a burglar in her parents' home shortly after midnight and felled him with a seltzer bottle.

She followed this by breaking a tumbler on the burglar's head, stunning him, then sat on him until help arrived. She is the daughter of a silk manufacturer.

Taft Envoys to Meet Roosevelt
Washington, June 9.—President
Taft has asked Secretary of the Navy
Meyers and Secretary of Agriculture
Wilson to officially welcome former President Roosevelt in Mr. Taft's name when he returns to New York.

Foreclosure of $3,500,000 Mortgage
Des Moines, June 6.—The Old Colony Trust company of Boston foreclosed a mortgage of $3,500,000 on the Fort Dodge, Des Moines and Southern railroad in the United States court here.

Jeffries' Prediction
San Francisco, June 9.—Jim Jeffries has made his first prediction about the outcome of his fight with Johnson. "I'll beat Johnson as quickly as I did Munroe," he said.

NOTED SCIENTIST DEAD

Goldwin Smith Favored Union of Canada and United States

Toronto, June 8.—Professor Gold-
win Smith, the noted scientist, known and revered as "The Sage of the Grange," died yesterday afternoon. On Feb. 5 he slipped and fell heavily. Two days afterward an examination disclosed the fact that his right thigh bone had been broken.
Because of Smith's advanced age, 87,
the surgeons in attendance would make no effort to unite the two parts of the fractured bone.

In the death of Smith the world
loses a scholar of exceptional attainments, and those persons in Canada who favor annexation to the United States lose their most prominent spokesman. For almost forty years Smith has been the leader in the movement looking to the union of the United States and Canada. He was born in Reading, Eng.

ALIENATION IS ALLEGED

Boston Merchant Sues Mother-in-Law
and an Aged Man

Boston, June 8.—Two attachments, each in the amount of $10,000, have been filed by William O. Elwell, fish merchant of T wharf, one against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Blackton of Rowley, and the second against Charles Boynton of Everett.

This action is based on the alleged alienation by Boynton of the affections of Elwell's wife, Mrs. Mary Elwell of Rowley. Both of the defendants are prominent members of the Baptist church.

Boynton, who is a retired merchant, is nearly 80 years old, while Mrs. Elwell is slightly over 40. Boynton was the father of four children,
all of whom are dead, while Mrs. Elwell has three sons and a daughter.

IS FINED $5000 ON SMUGGLING CHARGE

Boston Woman to Appeal From Federal Court Decision

Trenton, June 7.—Convicted of attempting to smuggle personal property—Parisian gowns and lingerie—into the United States by means of a trunk with a false bottom, Mrs. Matilda M. Chesbrough, wife of a wealthy Boston shipowner, was fined $5000 in the United States court here.

Counsel for Mrs. Chesbrough announced that an appeal would be taken to the United States circuit court of appeals.

At her trial Mrs. Chesbrough claimed that the false bottom found in her trunk was used by her while traveling as an ironing board. Her explanation, however, was not satisfactory to the court.

PRIEST TEARS DOWN ALTAR

He Thus Saves Destruction of His Church by Fire

North Adams, Mass., June 9.—
Fire last night in the Church of St.
Anthony of Padua caused damage to the amount of $3000.

Rev. William Lattanzi fought the fire side by side with the firemen and with his own hands tore down the altar that the source of the flames
might be reached.

Weeping, the pastor watched the flames destroy the altar cloths and statues. The fire was discovered about 9:50 o'clock by Lattanzi. The church was dedicated about five years ago, and was the first Italian church
to be built in this city.

BLOOD DENOTES NEGRO

Decision of Justice of District of Columbia Supreme Court

Washington, June 8.—Although Justice Wright of the supreme court of the District of Columbia declared in a decision that Isabel I. Wall bore
no ocular evidence of being a negro,
he refused to order the board of education to admit her to the white schools. He did this on the ground that her father was a negro.

"The child's proportion of negro blood is one-eighth or one-sixteenth," said Wright. "Graduations shading toward black or graduations shading toward fairness are of very insignificant concern in determining whether one is 'colored.'"

Shoots Lover and Kills Self

Quincy, Mass., June 6.—The motive for the shooting of James E.
Shannon by Ella Lawson, who killed herself, was the belief of the young woman that he had transferred his affections to another. Shannon is reported to have slim chance of recovery.

Royal Nuptials at Potsdam

Berlin, June 9.—Prince Frederick William of Prussia, youngest son of the late Prince Albrecht, was married at Potsdam palace to Princess Agathe
of Ratibor, eldest daughter of Duke Victor of Ratibor. The prince is 30 years old and his bride 22.

Railway Strike in France

Paris, June 9.—The strike of the employees of the Railway du Nord is growing, but the company remains optimistic. In the south of France
the railway strike is assuming large proportions. Soldiers have been called out.

BECOMES BRIDE OF NOBLEMAN

Miss Drexel Weds Viscount
Maldstone, Who Is Penniless

LONDON SOCIETY TURNS OUT

Every Detail, Even to Name of Church, Arranged to Introduce Flower Name of Bride, Who Wears
Golden Train—Ten Bridesmaids
Linked by Chain of Real Daisies—
Heads Bound With Myrtle Leaves

London, June 8.—London society and English nobility forgot for the moment today the nation's bereavement, for they gathered at St. Margaret's church, Westminster, to witness the wedding of Miss Margaretta Drexel, only daughter of Anthony J.
Drexel and wife of London and Philadelphia, and Viscount Maldstone.

Like many international marriages,
the groom is a popular but penniless member of England's nobility. The bride, with her brother, Anthony J.
Drexel, Jr., who recently married Miss Marjorie Gould in New York, is heir to the Drexel fortune of $60,000,- 000.

High British religious and political officialdom graced the nuptials with their presence. The bishop of London, assisted by Canon Benson, rector of St. Margaret's church, performed the ceremony, which was that of the English church.

Not only was the ceremony held in a church bearing Miss Drexel's name,
but every detail of the affair was arranged to introduce her flower name.

Her trousseau dresses, made in Paris, were decorated with margarites. Satin corsets wrought in daisies came from great Paris cor-setiers. The Irish lace trimmings, the lingerie and linen was of applique
margarites or crocheted to the same design.

The ten bridesmaids, clad in "angel robes" of white crepe, long and straight, with draped train caught to the sides with daisies, walked hand in hand, linked by a chain of real daisies. They represented Botti-cell's exquisite allegory of "Spring."
Their heads were bound with fillets
of fresh green myrtle leaves, crossing their brows and ending over the ears in huge round balls of wild daisies. From the floral bandeaux gauze veils floated to the hems of their satin garments and their footgear of silver leather covered stockings of silver thread especially woven.

The bridesmaids, all tall, of elegant figure, exceedingly handsome,
and most of them brunettes like Miss
Drexel, made a remarkable following.
The bride's dress was a classic
robe made to mould Miss Drexel's graceful figure. Soft satin was the material, woven like chiffon, ten yards of which might be compressed into a space which would be filled by three-quarters of a yard of the conventional bride's satin. Great simplicity was the keynote of the dress itself, but an artist of note drew the drapery and indicated the main lines of the dress.

It was, however, the suggestion of Margaretta's sister-in-law Mrs. Anthony Drexel, Jr., that she should have a gold train, so from the shoulders of Miss Drexel's robe swept a manteau de cours of the most magnificent gold cloth, patterned with margarites, woven especially for her.

Turner in Field Again

Boston, June 9.—State Auditor
Henry B. Turner of Malden announces that he is a candidate for renomaination on the Republican state ticket
this fall.

ADJOURNMENT IN SIGHT

Pressing Campaigns at Home Make Congressmen Restless

Washington, June 9.—Senate and house leaders, with the co-operation of the president, have begun a vigorous campaign for an early adjournment of congress.

Looking toward this end, the president hopes that the senate will accept the postal savings bank bill as it will be passed, in all probability, by the house tonight.

The conferees on the railroad bill went to work yesterday afternoon on that measure. Before beginning the first conference Senator Aldrich expressed the belief that by working early and late it would be possible to agree upon the new rate law within a comparatively few days.

According to the plans being formulated among the house and senate leaders adjournment by July 1 seems quite probable. House members on both sides of the chamber are becoming restless, owing to pressing campaigns at home, and are evincing a desire to bring the session to a close as soon as possible.

MILK WAR IS ENDED

Producers Win After a Long Fight
With Boston Contractors

Boston, June 8.—The so-called milk war that has threatened famine to Boston consumers for several months back, fought persistently by the producers and contractors, and which has been the subject of legislative investigation, was last evening officially declared at an end by W. A. Hunter, president of the Consolidated Milk Producers' company.

On Monday the H. P. Hood company capitulated and agreed to pay the producers the winter prices during the remainder of the summer and until May 1, 1911. Yesterday afternoon the three Whiting companies agreed to the demands of the producers.

FEAR THAT WATER MAY BE POISONED

Dead Fish in Reservoir Alarm
Citizens of Wakefield

Wakefield, Mass., June 9.—Much alarm was felt by the residents of this town when it was learned that the fish in Crystal lake, from which the town draws its water supply, are dying in large numbers.

Many of the citizens here feel that the water has been poisoned. Yesterday several boys were seen gathering up the dead fish, which include perch, bass, yellow perch, and pickrel, presumably for eating purposes. Later, however, the water commissioners caused notices placed warning people not to eat the dead fish. A patrol was also placed along the lake's edge to keep people away from the water.

Crystal lake is about a mile long and half a mile wide. About thirty years ago the waters of the lake were well stocked with fish by private individuals.

$5000 SHORTAGE CHARGED

New Hampshire Postmaster is in Custody of Deputy Sheriff

North Conway, N. H., June 7.— Charged with a shortage of $5000 in his official accounts, Postmaster Arthur Charles of North Conway will be arraigned before the United States commissioner at Portsmouth.

Charles, who is now in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Seavey, is said to have followed the stock market quotations closely for a year or so.

He is 28 years old and unmarried and has been the local postmaster for five years. He is a Mason of high degree and has been prominent in church work. Postoffice Inspector
Stone is at work upon the case.

MORE SHOCKS IN ITALY

Earthquake's Death List is Estimated at About Fifty

Naples, June 9.—A series of slight earth shocks was recorded by the seismographs at points in southern Italy. The disturbances, however, were not otherwise noticeable, and the people throughout the region that was severely shaken Tuesday are calmer in the hope that the worst is over.

The number of casualties resulting from the earthquake has not yet been definitely ascertained, some of the reports estimating the dead at fifty.

President Fellows Resigns

Bangor, Me., June 8.—President
Fellows has presented his resignation to the trustees of the University of Maine. He will preside at the commencement exercises this week and will perform the usual duties of his office until the resignation has been acted upon.

Socialism the Great Problem

Jackson, Mich., June 6.—President Taft proclaimed Socialism as the great problem which confronts the American people, the issue which is soon to come and which must be skillfully met.

THE TOWN BY A COUNTRYMAN AT HOME

Victory for Clean Sport

Andover people always have a great deal of satisfaction in athletic victories won by students at Phillips. It is a natural pride, and seems to grow more widespread throughout the town as the years go by. There are reasons, however, why all lovers of amateur athletics should take pride in such victories as that of last Saturday, and one of the most striking reasons is the triumph marked by the Saturday contest, for strictly amateur athletics.

When the faculty found it necessary, if they were to conform to their strict rules governing the personnel of contestants in the Andover-Exeter game, to debar the best pitcher in the school, and one of the best in minor school nines in the country, the general opinion was expressed that all hope of winning the Exeter game had vanished. The result shows that while the team may have been somewhat weakened by the loss of such a splendid player, the opportunity was thereby given others in the school to come out and show what they could do. Two, if not more, excellent pitchers were developed; the whole spirit that should animate boys' contests got a decided uplift, and nothing but the most satisfactory gain for good, clean sport can be recorded in connection with the entire transaction.

It is doubtful if any school or college in the country is more strict along these lines than Phillips Academy. It would well behoove some of the other schools and colleges if they followed this example. One in particular is touting with a great deal of newspaper talk one of the strongest athletes on the teams this year, who has without question been paid in many contests in which he has taken much more direct interest, and with much more injury to amateur athletics than any student at Phillips Academy. The example of Principal Stearns and his associates in cleaning up affairs at Andover should be followed at this much more distinguished institution of learning.

Change in Old Business

The change in a long established business at Ballardvale, by which F. G. Haynes & Co. relinquish their business to two younger men, deserves more than passing notice. For forty-six years Felix G. Haynes and his brother, Bancroft T. Haynes, have served the trade in Ballardvale faithfully and well. They have been not only good business men, attending diligently to their work of buying and selling, but they have made of their daily intercourse with the village people a means to a better community. May both of these esteemed citizens have many years of comfort in their well-earned retirement from active business life.

For the young men who follow them, the best of success is hoped by their friends. Mr. Poor is well known in town, through his activity in temperance and religious work, and his position as a member of the school board. Townsman readers have also had for many years a closer acquaintance with him through his work as Ballardvale correspondent. Mr. Riley has many friends in the Vale and it would seem as if the new firm were admirably fitted to follow the long and honorable record of F. G. Haynes & Co.

Editorial Cinders

One of our good friends was bemoaning the fact, the other day, that the hill would be considerably torn up during the Commencement exercises, by the work going on in repairing the highway. Our reply was that it was a kind of tearing up that most institutions were very pleased to have, when they could see such a genuine and satisfactory improvement under way. The material that is being removed from the east side of the street will make several other weak patches of road in town better, and the hill will not alone be a gainer by the work now under way in that section.

The Playground idea in Massachusetts has been furthered because of a desire to take the children from the streets while they are pursuing their sports. This does not seem to have resulted very satisfactorily in many parts of Andover. The writer cannot recall a year for a long time when the boys have so universally used the public thoroughfares for ball playing. If there were no other place there might be some excuse, and in certain outlying districts it doesn't seem as though there could be any fault found with this breach, but in the center of the town one cannot help commending to the police department a little stricter enforcement of the regulations that prohibit ball playing in the public streets.

The closing days of the schools are at hand. Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy mark one more year on their calendar with the exercises of next week. They have been quiet, effective years of work for both institutions. The teachers and students will have a well deserved rest of two months, and in a way, the town enjoys the same time as a period of rest. The quiet of the summer will be welcomed by many Andover citizens, but it will be a respite much more enjoyed because of the promise that is already held out for even greater success in numbers and in progress of the schools the coming year.

THE STATE BY A COUNTRYMAN ABROAD

Duplicated Service—Increased Burden on Public

The passing by the Massachusetts Legislature of the necessary legislation to provide for a new railroad connection between Boston and the North Shore cities and towns, is one more of the occasional short-sighted movements that one sees in the development of public service in the United States.

Either the whole theory of public service performed by private corporations under the control of proper government authority is sound or it is not. If it is sound, the doctrine carries with it the direct understanding that service must be satisfactory to the best interests of the community that is served. The corporation that embarks in the work of performing this service makes itself a party to this in meeting this demand; the state by granting the charter and assuming the oversight makes itself another party. When the time comes that the equipment of the agent to which is entrusted this particular work is insufficient to perform the service, there is a new responsibility upon the enforcing party. We cannot see in anything that has been brought out in connection with the Boston and Eastern proposition that any such case has been made out. That certain individuals have not had their wishes complied with, is in no sense of the word sufficient ground for competition in this great public service.

There are already three railroads engaged in the work of performing the service in this section, more in number than supply the needs of any other section about Boston. They are direct competitors in many ways, yet each in his own peculiar field has, under the direction of the state commission, seemed to perform a peculiar and fairly satisfactory service.

There isn't the least question but that the same result will follow the coming in of another servant for this particular work that has always followed the duplicating of public service. Sooner or later, it will be a part of one or the other of the existing three services, and the public will find itself not a gainer either from economy or in service rendered. On the contrary, the public will find itself with a still greater burden so far as expense is concerned, for railroad service is a public service for which the public must pay whether it is performed by a private corporation or by direct use of public funds.

Let Discussion Be Free

Not for many years has the early political discussion aroused so much interest as it does at the present time. We are not of those who are inclined to look upon this with such disfavor as some do, for the public doesn't get interested in public questions save to the advantage of the public. Hence all the agitation for an overthrow of the existing Congress; for a change in the party control; for a new United States Senator; for a defeat of the present Governor—all these are most proper and rather desirable. But they are desirable not because they should take place, but because it gives an opportunity for those who hold these positions and beliefs to show to the public "why."

If the Republican party in Congress cannot justify its course upon the tariff, railroad regulation, public service of all kinds, it deserves to be overthrown. If Governor Draper has administered his office without a sure appreciation of what he was doing and so that he is unable to explain to the people the effective work of his administration, he deserves to be overthrown. If Senator Lodge's long career in the Senate, marked as it has been by so many illustrious achievements, cannot be justified before the people of the Commonwealth, he deserves to be overthrown.

As a matter of fact, these men have had their opportunity, and in the eyes of many people used it wisely, and they are at all times in a position to be called upon to justify further confidence. We believe that they will do it, and we don't regret for a minute that the call which asks them to do it, is a little louder than usual. The answer is bound to also be louder than usual.

Punchard Graduation

Tickets for the Punchard graduation, June 23, may be obtained by the usual method, which is as follows:

First: By personal application at the principal's office between two and four o'clock on any afternoon beginning with the week of June 13, Sundays excepted, or Second: By written application, stating the number of tickets desired and enclosing a stamped and addressed envelope. Applications for not more than two tickets will be given preference of seats.

No tickets are necessary for the open-air Class Day exercises at 3 p.m., on June 22.

Card of Thanks

George W. Shaw and family wish to extend thanks to the many friends for their kindness and sympathy during their bereavement, also the many flowers sent.

Phillips Academy Notes

On Thursday evening an athletic banquet was held, to which members of the various teams and athletic committees were invited.

Fred R. Large was unanimously elected captain of the football team for next year, at a meeting of the team held Tuesday.

R. C. Martin has been elected captain of the track team for next year.

Wedded Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. James Higgins, 2d street, North Grafton, quietly celebrated Wednesday afternoon and evening their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Higgins' feeble health forbidding other than a family remembrance of the event in an informal way.

James Higgins and Miss Agnes Campbell were married June 7, 1860, at Johnston, Scotland, by Rev. James Ingalls. Of their ten children, five are now living: William Higgins, non-commissioned officer in the British army; Mrs. Alexander Smith and Mrs. John McDermott of Abbot Village; Mrs. George Fields of Grafton; and Mrs. Richard Avery of Millbury. They have twenty living grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Higgins went to Grafton from Scotland nearly thirty years ago, and up to within a short time he had worked in the Finlayson flax mills.

ABBOTT VILLAGE

Thomas Addley of Arbroath, Scotland arrived in the village last Monday.

James Poland of Red Spring road is confined to his home by illness this week.

Rev. John Nolan of Portland, Me., spent the early part of the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nolan, on Red Spring road.

Many people from the village saw the circus in Lawrence last Wednesday.

The new incandescent light just erected on Red Spring road is a wonderful and much-needed improvement.

Robert Magee of Lincoln street has left the employ of the Smith & Dove Co.

The tree warden has a gang of men cutting down the old apple trees on Chanders' hill this week.

A pleasant feature of the gathering on the local cricket field last Saturday afternoon, just before the game between the Andovers and the Merimacks started, was the presentation of a white hat to William Black. Mr. Black won the hat in the game with the Zions of Lowell a week ago by taking three wickets with three consecutive balls.

The monthly meeting of the Andover Cricket club will be held in the Abbott Village lower hall, Monday evening at eight o'clock, when it is hoped every member will be present.

Abbot Academy Notes

Sunday evening the regular weekly service was led by Rev. Mr. Oliphant of Methuen, who has had charge this year of the senior classes in Psychology, Ethics and Theism.

One of the pleasantest events of the spring was Miss Schiefferdecker's German picnic last Wednesday afternoon at Alderbrook Farm. After a tramp through the fields and a picnic supper, the girls played simple games for which Miss Schiefferdecker had provided charming German prizes. The program of Commencement events at Abbot can be found on page one.

Punchard Notes

Miss Elizabeth Neal, the instructor in English, has resigned her position to go to West Springfield.

The baseball game which was scheduled to take place with Exeter High on the playstead tomorrow afternoon has been postponed to June 18, and will be played at Exeter. The reason for the change is that the track meet to be held on the P. A. campus comes on Saturday afternoon and would conflict with the game.

On Tuesday, June 14, Punchard will play Pinkerton Academy at Derry, N. H.

New Grocery Firm

After an existence of forty-six years, the well-known grocery firm of F. G. Haynes & Co. has been succeeded by the new firm of Poor & Riley, composed of Daniel H. Poor and John A. Riley. Both members of the new firm were born and have always lived in Ballardvale, where they have many friends. The new firm will endeavor to continue to follow and practice the strict integrity and upright business methods of the old firm, and a prosperous future seems assured for them.

The forty-eighth annual convention of the National Educational Association of the United States will be held in Boston July 2 to 8. Sunday, July 3, will be observed as Educational Sunday, while the other days of the convention will be filled with discussions of the phases of education, and branches of study. Various other societies will meet with the Education association, while the presence of eminent speakers will insure a session of great interest and value. The following Andover teachers have registered for advance membership in the association: from Punchard school, Charles L. Curtis, principal; Marshall F. Davis, Miss Elizabeth Neal, Miss Edna G. Chapin, Miss Carolyn E. Rey, Miss Christine L. Lewis; from the Stowe school, Miss Anna E. Chase; from the John Dove school, Miss Annie M. Downes, Miss Elizabeth Ferguson, Miss Jennie S. Abbott; from the Bradlee school, Miss Clara A. Putnam, Miss Katherine T. Hannon, Miss Florence I. Abbott, from the North school, Miss Annie A. Shirley.

Punchard Wins Championship

On Tuesday afternoon on the Pelham street playstead in Methuen, Punchard defeated the Methuen high school team in an interesting game, the score of which was 11 to 6. This was the third game between these two rivals in the triangular league Punchard having won two of the series. This victory gives to Punchard the championship in the league.

Mr. O. P. Chase,
Andover, Mass.,
I see by that famous Andover sheet, That you've moved your business across the street,
Which will, I haven't any doubt, Somewhat improve your bank account, Although I think you must erstwhile In your former stand have made your pile.
The way things now are looking to me, You'll soon be rated with John D. Your humble servant must admit He made his pile, but his name is "nit." But when I leave this world of sin, The golden gates to enter in, There to meet all the old boys, And enter in to everlasting joys, That about these things I believe as before,
And to you I will not preach any more. But whether I write or talk or sing, My sentiments are the proper thing. Although I am far from Zion's Hill, My thoughts are always with you still. My health improves in a way, But for cobbling shoes I've had my day. But for composing rhymes I think I may Continue to go some for many a day. And such as they are you'll welcome be, So fare you well, dear Mr. O. P.

A Tribute

In the annual report of the treasurer of the Indian Ridge association, dated January 18, 1900, appear these words: "This report would be incomplete without some reference to the debt of gratitude which we owe to Mr. Charles L. Carter, who has given much time and thought to the subject of preserving and opening up the natural beauties of our Reservation. All tree lovers will join with us in acknowledging Mr. Carter's unwearied efforts in behalf of freedom, and no one is so well acquainted with the premises as he. If anyone present does not agree with this statement, let him take a drive with Mr. Carter some fine afternoon over along and about the various elevations connected with the property, and he will return with a wholesome respect for Mr. Carter's knowledge of the ground."

This was written in 1900. Since that year no one has given more time and attention to the affairs of the association or has done more in that quiet, unassuming way of his for its welfare than Mr. Carter, always excepting the four ladies who planned and worked four long years until they succeeded in saving what was left of the once glorious Indian Ridge for the benefit of all the citizens of Andover. Two localities in our town are identified with him, "Carter's Hill," where he passed so many happy hours, assisted by his devoted wife, in planting beautiful young trees and shrubs and vines, thus making that hilltop an ideal spot in harmony with its almost unlimited horizon, with the mountain peaks in the far distance; and Indian Ridge, which saved from the woodman's axe and the steam shovel, is now dangerously threatened by that latest of pests, the gypsy moth.

Election of Officers Held

The Bradlee Mothers' club held their meeting Thursday afternoon at 3.30 in the kindergarten. After the singing of the mothers' hymn, Chas. Marland of the kindergarten sang a song, and Ada Coxton contributed to the entertainment by singing two songs.

Election of officers was held and the following were elected for next year.

President, Lucy Anne Allen; vice-president, Mrs. Wells; secretary, Mrs. Farrell; treasurer, Mrs. E. Conkey. Membership committee, Mrs. W. Matthews, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Abbott; sick committee, Mrs. W. Clemons; Mrs. Trow, Mrs. Bruce; hospitality committee, Mrs. L. G. Buck.

It was voted to hold a basket picnic at the home of Mrs. E. Conkey on Thursday, July 21. All the mothers of the club, with their children, are urged to be present. The mothers are to meet at the station at 10 o'clock of that day.

Useful Information for Housekeepers

The Manufacture of Gelatine

Since the advent of the Pure Food Law, housekeepers are more than ever interested in what "things to eat" are made of. So many housekeepers have asked the question, "How is gelatine made?" that we are going to answer it briefly here.

The best gelatine is made of selected calf bones, such as you personally would use in your own home for making soups. This raw material comes from the plains of India and South America, and not from American packing plants, as many suppose, and it has been guaranteed by government inspection. This raw material is washed in pure, artesian well water, then kept submerged in pure lime water until ready to cook.

In the kettles the gelatine stock is covered with distilled water and cooked for hours at a low temperature. The liquor is then strained, filtered and clarified, after which it is cooled (jellied) under water; this is to keep it from any impurities in the air. The jelly-like substance is then dried out into clear sheets, under extreme heat, in specially prepared rooms. Finally it is ground to powder and packed by machinery into the sealed package which you buy from your grocer.

This very briefly is how Boston Crystal Gelatine is made.

Pure gelatine is absolutely free from any taste or odor. It may interest you housekeepers to know that in the Crystal plant all employees wear white duck suits which are changed every day, the manufacturers maintaining their own laundry for this purpose. It is gratifying to remember that Boston Crystal Gelatine is not touched by human hands in the making.

Attention was first called to gelatine as an article of food in 1789, at the time of the first French Revolution. In the struggle to provide a cheap and useful food for the soldiers and people, gelatine was adopted as containing the most nitrogen of any food at a similar cost.

While it is not practical as a steady diet for people under severe strain, its popularity remained undiminished with the coming of peace, and the use of gelatine has increased steadily for over one hundred years.

France has naturally taken the lead in the manufacture of gelatine, though the United States consumes more than any country in the world. It is generally conceded, too, that with our improved scientific methods we make the purest and best gelatine.

Pure gelatine is very nutritious and Boston Crystal Gelatine is especially so. A pan of gelatine liquor weighing forty pounds is concentrated into two and one-half pounds. Furthermore, in order that its usual strength may be preserved, it is packed in air-tight, moisture-proof packages.

The housewife can make a calf's foot jelly at home by boiling a soup bone, but she cannot obtain the same result as the manufacturer, who not only brings a lifetime of experience into the problem, but the chemist and all his laboratory as well. One ounce of Boston Crystal Gelatine will make two full quarts of jelly.

While gelatine may be used to advantage in making ice cream, marshmallows, etc., it is primarily a dainty dessert and is coming more and more into favor each year in all sections of the country.

Boston Crystal Gelatine sets very quickly and makes a clear, transparent, tender jelly, which can be mixed with milk or cream without curdling. By "tender" we mean a jelly which will rapidly dissolve in the mouth. Some kinds are not tender in this sense. You have to almost chew them as you would a gum drop. Some kinds are undesirable as they show poor material, faulty manufacture, or both.

In our next article we shall give some valuable information as to the various uses of pure gelatine. Crystal Gelatine Company, Boston, Mass.

Mind's Mastery Over Matter.
Striking instances of the mastery of mind over matter are seen almost every day in dining cars. Not only are they seen, but they are experienced. Frequently I go into a diner thinking: "Well, I'm feeling pretty tolerably puny. I tell you. I'm fairly puny this morning. Maybe I can worry down as much as a little bit of buttered toast and two soft boiled eggs."

I think this because I have been counting on an a la carte breakfast. But when I get into the car and sit down at the table and observe that the meal is table d'hôte—well! That's different. I'm feeling better, thanks. That cantaloupe sounds good, also the breakfast food. Salt mackerel doesn't listen so bad to a man who hasn't had a single morsel of food between supper and breakfast. What's the matter with that sirloin, with a couple of rashers of bacon, a cheese omelet, some French fried potatoes, a few more of those hot rolls, please, and some wheat cakes with maple syrup and a pot of coffee?

Yes, that's the way it works—the whole program from soup to nuts, and you don't feel particularly well fed even then.

Then sometimes it works out in the following manner:

(Before you have investigated.)
Come, feed with me, my gentle friend,
While the covered coaches fly.
Let's seek the car at yonder end
Of the choo-choo, you and I.
We'll down the doughty tenderloin,
We'll worry the Boston bean,
For only a paltry bit of coin.
Oh, shame on the man that's mean!
Come, take with me a bit of cheer,
Thou loved of my inmost heart,
For the dining car's in the rear,
My dear,
And the service is a la carte.

(After investigation.)
Nay; not today, my time tried friend,
For my tummy hurts me so.
The food van's on the hindmost end.
'Tis quite too far to go.
The things they serve on railroad trains
Are never the food for mine.
I dare not take a chance on pains
With viands too rich and fine.
Let's fast and be of chastened cheer,
Nor vulgarly play the goat.
Though the dining car's in the rear,
My dear,
The service is table d'hôte.
I note—
The service is table d'hôte.

A Message to Farmers.
The grange is the best organized, most sensibly conducted and most valuable organization the farmers of this country have ever known. It is organized along proper lines; it recognizes the home and the wife and brings such an influence into the deliberations of the grange as to put it on a very high level, excluding entirely what ever would not be welcome to the most delicate ears.

The social features of the grange are admirable. Farmers live so far apart, whether a quarter of a mile or a half mile or a mile, that unless some organization brings them together they live lonely, isolated lives. The grange does much to overcome this natural condition. It should be more extensively organized. The settlers of the western country beyond the Mississippi river would be greatly benefited by an organization of this kind.

Much of the progress made by agriculture in the last generation is due to the influence of the grange.—Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture.

Grange Extension.
The extension work is progressing well under the direction of the executive committee of the national grange. Organizers are doing continuous work in Iowa, Wisconsin, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, South Dakota and Indiana. Organizers are working in Colorado and Idaho by direction of the committee, and extension work is being done in Vermont, Michigan, Ohio and Washington under joint co-operation of the national and state granges. During the first eleven days in February thirty-six granges were organized in the country, which is a good record. The increase in membership in existing granges is most gratifying and indicates a record breaking year in grange extension.—National Master Bachelder.

Grange Improves Conditions.
State Master Richardson of Massachusetts recently said: "Through the granges conditions are changing for the better in rural communities. The development of young men and women is being accomplished by the grange. Next to the I would place the grange in so far as it is helpful to the community. If we are to continue to drift cityward, as we have done in the past, it is of the utmost importance to the urban population to have the beneficial work of the grange go forward. The grange is felt in educational affairs. School superintendents are now employed in all communities instead of in those able to pay them, as in the past."

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

Berlin and London
Two incidents of Mr. Roosevelt's visit to Berlin should not be forgotten. The visit to the big poor folks' farm under state control, and the review of 12,000 soldiers. Note well that these soldiers are not freemen who have enlisted. They are conscripts compelled at 21 years of age to be food for powder whenever the ambition of the emperor or the thirst for conquest of the military party says war.

The big poor-farm is just the consequence of the big army. Think of five hundred thousand men producing nothing, kept by the plodding industry of the German people. The paternal care taken by the government of all its subjects, and the costly outlay connected therewith, is an object lesson. All this paternal care has not put down the worst kind of anarchy. Socialism of a malignant type, from which we are happily exempt in this country, (Archbishop O'Connell notwithstanding) is a continual nuisance in several European countries.

The military class breeds class distinctions not known here. We have plenty of caste of a certain kind, a foolish, newly-made rich set that ignore the poor, and the little social cliques that think themselves superior to the people in the next street because they happen to have a piano and the next street people have half a dozen children. This kind of caste is a "comedy of errors" and will come out all right before the curtain falls. But the devilish, ungodly kind of socialism bred by military tyranny and sacerdotalism in churches is a dangerous disease.

When Mr. Roosevelt in his great Berlin speech said that no country had a monopoly of wisdom, he showed that he had not the small head of many of his countrymen who think that because they live in a big country all other countries are inferior to them, thus proving the proverb that "good gear" is often tied up in little bunches.

The emperor of Germany is, I think, a well intentioned man, and the dismounting from his horse and opening the carriage door for his aunt at the funeral is one of the trifles that count in the estimation of the British people. The military party in Prussia may overrule the good sense of the emperor and try their new ships, guns, and flying machines against England. France is ready to join in the conflict, Japan will help out, Russia is friendly to England, and this country will give her all the food she wants. Canada and all the colonies are ready to fight if necessary. Germany will have her hands full if she tackles England.

London is rather a large village and not easily moved by visitors, whatever their rank or importance may be. During the London Exhibition in 1851, a pompous gentleman I know in Scotland visited London. On his return, when asked what impressed him most in London, said frankly, "Well, gentlemen, my own insignificance. I was only number 36, that was all." Mr. Roosevelt behaved well at the funeral, and also at Oxford. The boys and the Teddy Bear hung from the gallery, and Mr. Roosevelt's taste in enjoying the joke marked him as one of them.

The Guild hall speech on receiving the gilded casket may be put down as wanting in taste. What our ex-president said may be true as to the position of England in Egypt, yet if an ex-premier of England made similar remarks about Cuba and the Philippines, what a Yankee howl there would be! No man is perfect, and we must excuse slips of good intention.

Two old Scotch farmers were at a neighbor's funeral, and after the ceremony they indulged rather freely in the drinking of the national liquor. On coming home, before they parted, one of them said as he staggered over to shake hands, "Noo, Jamie, did I behave all right?" "I dinna mind of kissing the bride," Jamie replied. "Bride, ye idiot, it was a burial."

I don't think Mr. Roosevelt forgot that he was at a burial, but he may have forgotten that he was in London.

IAN McDOUGALL.

Exeter Again Defeated

The annual baseball contest between Phillips Andover and Phillips Exeter took place last Saturday afternoon before a large crowd of spectators. It was estimated that about six thousand people gathered to witness the game, which had promised all through the season to be close and which proved to be one of the best if not the best ever played between the two rival schools. The weather was perfect for baseball, the morning chilliness disappearing in the afternoon. The field presented a beautiful appearance with its green grass and trees at one extreme, and the animated crowds of onlookers in the stands at the other. Long before the game commenced the bleachers began to fill rapidly, the crowd being augmented by a large number from Exeter supporters who accompanied the team. The encouragement given the visiting players by these supporters was splendid, and the enthusiasm evinced by the Exeter cheering section and their leaders was by no means to be overlooked, as it far exceeded that shown by the supporters of the home team.

The batteries of the two teams at the beginning of the game were as follows: Exeter, Litchfield, pitcher, Donovan, catcher; Andover, Ripley, pitcher, Wright, catcher. At the outset it was evident that the game would be a close and hard-fought one, and during the first three innings neither side was able to score, although several hits were made, and there were men on the bases almost continually. In the fourth, Ripley of Andover scored a run. The fifth added nothing to the score on either side. In the first of the sixth Exeter secured three runs, putting them ahead. Andover scored two more points in the last half of the inning, making the totals 3 to 3. In the seventh the Exeter catcher was struck by a pitched ball and had to drop out of the game. Way replaced him, Litchfield went into left field, and Frye went into the box. No runs were made in this inning. Andover added one more point in the eighth, and Exeter one in the ninth, making the score 4 to 4. A tenth inning failed to change this, and in the eleventh, when Ripley was replaced by Carl, Burdett made a hit when two men were out, which won the game.

There was considerable loose playing on both sides, but on the whole the game was well played. The continual hitting and the excitement of having men on bases added much to the zest of the game. The line-up and summary follow.

Cricket

Andover Cricket club played Methuen Cricket club at Andover last Saturday. The weather was splendid, but there were very few spectators present. The score was low, on account of the splendid bowling on both sides. Andover batted first, and ran up a total of 58 runs. W. Black was top scorer with 16 runs to his credit, T. Lamond getting 10 runs. The bowling of Gordon for Methuen was good, he having seven wickets for 20 runs. Methuen was not so successful at bat as Andover. Briggs and Ankers were the highest scorers with 9 and 8 runs respectively. The bowling of Black and Rea for Andover was a feature of the game, Black getting 4 wickets for 26 runs and Rea 3 for 7 runs. Lamond had 2 for 7 runs. Following are the scores:

SUCCESSFUL CO-OPERATION.

An Example Showing What Farmers
Can Do by Pulling Together.

In Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other central western states the co-operation idea has a strong hold on the farmers in many sections. It has worked out into practical and successful results through the granges and farmers' clubs. Here is one illustration; there are scores and scores of others. The Fruit Growers' association of Sparta, Wis., was incorporated in 1896 with a capital stock of $6,000, divided into 3,000 shares of $2 each. In 1908 this association did over $30,000 worth of business. Some days it shipped as many as 4,000 cases of strawberries. During the shipping season the association keeps a representative in South Dakota and also one in Minneapolis and St. Paul. Through the efforts of these men they are able to watch the markets and ship just enough berries to take care of the demand, thus avoiding overstocking the markets and bringing down prices. The cost of running the business has not exceeded 4 per cent and sometimes has been as low as 2 1/2 per cent. Last year the association paid a 7 per cent dividend on capital stock. Ten per cent of all money received from sales is held by the association until the end of the year, when the books are closed and the balance due each seller is paid to him.

In addition to selling fruit the association makes its own boxes and crates. The net profit saved on these boxes by making them themselves is from $800 to $900 per year. This profit is returned to the farmers according to the produce each brings for sale.

When will farmers everywhere learn that only by combining their efforts and uniting their interests can they secure best results? There is no more important work for the grange to do on its financial side than to promulgate the idea of a hearty co-operation among its members both in buying and selling. Illustrations like the above should set grangers to thinking.

A KANSAS TOWN.

Owned by Farmers Who Are Working Together For Mutual Interest.

The town of Upland, in Dickinson county, Kan., affords an interesting example of co-operative work. Three mutual companies in flourishing condition have their headquarters in Upland, which is not a large place. They are an insurance organization, a telephone company and a mercantile corporation. At a meeting of farmers twenty-five years ago it was agreed that whenever a fire occurred an assessment should be levied to make good the damage. The company then organized has now 3,500 members. When it was started it was decided that $2 a day was enough to pay any officer, and that amount has never been raised. This is paid only when the officers work.

These farmers built a creamery. Later it was concluded that it would be a good idea to bring farm produce along with the milk to run a store. A co-operative organization with a capital of $25,000 was formed, and the store has been so profitable that the stock is quoted at $150 for a hundred dollar share. It is called the Golden Rule company, and it owns a grain elevator. The telephone company serves over 4,000 persons, most of them farmers. It is purely mutual, with no capital stock. No fixed rental is charged, each owner of a telephone paying a proportionate share of the expense of operation and maintenance. Each farmer must buy outright a long distance telephone. The first year's expense is about $35, which includes instrument, connection and dues. After that the cost is about $5 a year.

What has been accomplished by these Kansas farmers illustrates what might be done in other localities in the way of cutting out the usual middle-men's profit and keeping down expenses for the consumer. It would stop part of the cry about high prices.

"Memory Day."

A few years ago the Michigan legislature designated Sept. 30 of each year as "memory day," asking that the day be devoted to the improving and beautifying of rural cemeteries. The law was enacted at the earnest solicitation of the state grange and the State Association of Farmers' Clubs. This new line of country improvement work, so far as the state grange was concerned, was put into the hands of its committee on woman's work, which works in conjunction with similar committees in the 700 or more subordinate granges of the state. The results have been gratifying, and "memory day" has won a place for itself among grange activities.

Why Not?

The grange stands for the parcels post, the postal savings bank, federal aid in road building and the election of United States senators by direct vote. As it stands for the things you stand for, why not stand for it?

At a recent meeting of Keswick grange of Leelanau county, Mich., the sending of a fruit exhibit to the state grange was discussed, and it was decided to get up an exhibit of fruit that will reflect credit upon the county and its patrons.

101 Ranch Wild West

Announcement is made of the appearance in Lawrence on Wednesday, June 15, of the 101 Ranch Wild West. The show is the big, fresh, clean, vigorous tented amusement organization from the Oklahoma prairie. Performances will be given in the afternoon and at night, and a typically western street parade will gladden the eyes and the hearts of young and old in the early forenoon.

The 101 Ranch Wild West is the most sensational newcomer in the history of canvas entertainments. Professionally organized only three years ago, it has already toured the length and breadth of this country, Canada and Mexico, and established a popular reputation which other earlier traveling enterprises have required decades to acquire.

Its home and its origin are the Oklahoma rangelands. Every person and feature is real, vital and characteristic. The performers are not professionals, but men, women and children on a "lark" from the 101 Ranch. Every name is known on the ranches of the Southwest for skill and daring in avocations of the range. Every champion of the lariat, sharpshooter, cowgirl, cowboy, trick rider, and other participant is permanently on the pay-roll of the 101 Ranch. Herds of gaunt, long-horned western steers and pure-blooded buffaloes, are fantastic features. There are more than one hundred Indians, most of them fresh from the wigwags of the tribes who have their homes on the 101 Ranch land.

The 101 Ranch show is today the only big, exclusively "Wild West" show in the world, and perpetuates a picturesque, romantic period in American history surviving remotely, and most notably on the sweeps of prairie where the amusement institution had its inception. The morning street parade is a moving, living narrative of the early West, and Miller Bros. & Arlington contend it has never had a like or equal.

Paragon Park

Manager George A. Dodge has prepared an elaborate program for the gala opening of the sixth successful season of Paragon Park and the Palm Garden at Nantasket Beach next Saturday, June 11. One of the most distinctive new features will be a new statuary fountain which rises majestically from the centre of the lagoon. Taking a congress of mermaids for the ensemble effect, the sculptor has created a thing of great beauty. It will be seen to advantage at night when the countless fountains of water mount high in the air in ever changing colors. The Maritime Military Concert Band, conducted by Mace Gay, will play in the bandstand on the lagoon from 2:30 to 5:30 and 7:00 to 10:00 daily. In the Palm Garden, noted along the Atlantic Coast for its fine cuisine and wine list, and larger than ever, Sztarny's Viennese Orchestra, assisted by the Paragon Male Quartet, selected from the Montgomery & Stone and Ward & Vokes companies, will entertain the guests. Manager Dodge will surpass all his previous efforts in the way of a fireworks display on the opening night. Halley's comet will be realistically produced. A unique Italian pyrotechnic program will paint the heavens with spectacular fire in every form and color, while the array of free circus acts is more imposing than ever.

A MODEL PROGRAM.

A New York Pomona Grange Had Interesting Literary Features.

The following program of the St. Lawrence county Pomona grange meeting held June 1 at Crary Mills is presented not so much for its news features as to show what is in many respects a model program for the county grange and which in a general way at least may be followed by other granges for similar occasions:

Program.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1, 1910.
11 a. m.—Business.
12 m. to 1:30 p. m.—Noon recess.
1:30 p. m.—Business in fifth degree.
2 p. m.—Conferring of fifth degree.

Free Seeds Not Wanted.

Pomona and subordinate granges in Maine are placing themselves squarely on record against the bumbag of free seed delivery and in favor of the parcels post. Whatever merit there has been in the free seeds, the day is gone for the farmers to use these relics of a prehistoric age when pure seeds are so easily and cheaply obtained. If experimental work is desired, then the whole system should be revised. As the Patrons of Androscoggin and Sagadahoc say, "Cut out the free seeds and give us the parcels post," and the cry will go up until the petition is granted.

National Master to Address Meeting.
On June 18 Columbia county (N. Y.) Pomona grange will meet at the home of L. L. Morrell of Kinderhook. National Master Bacheider and Professors Jordan and Hedrick of the Geneva experiment station will be the speakers. Mr. Morrell owns a large fruit farm on which are over 3,000 apple trees, 5,500 cherry trees, 2,000 pear trees and 700 plum trees.

NORTH ANDOVER

G. Otto Kunhart of Ashdale, in the Centre, has gone abroad for a trip.

The selectmen and treasurer have borrowed $20,000 in anticipation of taxes.

Next Sunday will be observed as Children's Sunday at Trinitarian Congregational church.

The historic old Oxford chapel, the scene of many debates, lectures and gatherings, first as a church, next as a labor union hall, and later as a moving picture house, has been bought by G. S. Mason.

Daniel Zinck, one of the crew of the schooner, Ida M. Brooks, lying at Gloucester, while attempting to board his vessel fell from the wharf to the deck, striking on his head, several ribs being fractured.

BOSTON THEATRES

Boston Theatres
Park—"The Man From Home."
Tremont—"The Girl in the Taxi."
Majestic—"Caste."
Castle Square—"The Rivals."

MAJESTIC
This week's attraction at the Majestic theatre is "Caste," with Miss Charlotte Hunt in the leading role. This is a clever English comedy in three acts, which deals with the messalliance of a young man of rank with a young woman from the ballet. Next week Romeo and Juliet will be played by Miss Hunt's company.

CASTLE SQUARE

The Craig Stock Company are presenting "The Rivals," one of the best of modern English comic pieces. It is a costume play set in the eighteenth century, with parts well calculated to bring out the abilities of the players.

PARK

William Hodge is playing the twenty-third week of his engagement in "The Man From Home," at the Park theatre. Bostonians certainly appreciate this play, for it has held the stage as has nothing else at the Park theatre for a long time.

TREMONT

"The Girl in the Taxi" still holds full sway at the Tremont theatre, where nightly large crowds gather to witness this lively farce. The fifth week opened in an auspicious manner on Monday evening, the favorable impression made by Carter de Haven and his company being in no way lessened.

Rosy Cheeks or Pale Ones?

A moment's reflection with your mirror will give the hint as to the condition of your system. Pale cheeks, muddy complexion, dull eyes, show a poverty of blood. You require something to make a plentiful supply of rich, red blood course through your veins. To ensure this take

BALLARD VALE

Sleigh Rowland, Jr., and daughter Bertha, of Springfield, have been spending several days with the former's father, Sleigh Rowland, River street.

Ballardvale lodge will have a special good of the order next Monday evening, in charge of Mrs. J. H. Smith. All Good Templars will be welcome.

A good-sized delegation of local Epworth Leaguers attended the quarterly session of the circuit leaders, held in St. Paul's Methodist church, Lawrence, Monday evening.

Both the local Sunday schools were represented at the session of the District Sunday School Teachers' association, held at the Free church, Andover, Tuesday evening.

Ballardvale will play the strong St. Charles team of Woburn on the playground Saturday afternoon. Manager Hoffman expects that his team will give a good account of themselves.

Last Saturday afternoon at the Congregational parsonage, Rev. A. H. Fuller married Albert Burnley and Miss Annie Thornton. Mr. and Mrs. Burnley will for the present reside in Ballardvale.

George Trow pitched a very effective game against the Reading Independents last Saturday, and although the local team was defeated, it was only after a very close and exciting contest by a score of 6 to 5.

Children's day will be observed on next Sunday in the Congregational church. In the forenoon Rev. A. H. Fuller will preach to the children on the topic, "The Development of the Sunday School." At the close of the sermon the children will be presented with Bibles. The annual Children's day concert will take place at six p.m. in the church. A program of unusual excellence has been prepared. The public is very cordially invited to all of these services.

Elected Delegates

At the regular meeting of Ballardvale lodge, No. 103, held Monday evening, the following named persons were elected delegates and alternates to the session of Merrimack Valley District lodge, to be held in A. O. U. W. hall, Andover, Saturday afternoon and evening, June 15. Delegates, Mrs. J. H. Smith, Mrs. Mary A. Fessenden, Daniel H. Poor, Thos. Brear; alternates, Miss Emma Abercrombie, Miss Gladys Littlewood, Mrs. Annie Littlewood, Miss Clara Moody. Mrs. J. H. Smith will have charge of a special good of the order for next Monday evening.

Fathers' Night

The annual "fathers' night" of the Bradlee Mothers' club, held in the kindergarten room Wednesday evening was largely attended, and was the most successful gathering ever held by the club. The hall was very prettily decorated with flags, bunting, etc., and presented an attractive appearance. Miss Lucy Allen, whose efficient work in the kindergarten has brought the membership up to 18, had general supervision of the affair, and after a few brief remarks of welcome announced the following exceptionally interesting program:

Piano duet, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Stott; piano duet, Misses Louise and Margaret Wheatley; address of the evening, William Shaw; piano duet, the Misses Wheatley. The menagerie which followed caused no end of fun and amusement. While some of the groups of animals made more noise and posed with striking effect, none had a more enjoyable time than the "four dears," who certainly were right in their element.

Mrs. Louise G. Buck, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. William Clemons, chairman of the refreshment committee, and their efficient associates, made the occasion one of the most successful ever held by the club.

IX. — The Friends That Stick

"BUT, you see, papa," protested young Mrs. Rollins, "we've got to keep up appearances. I don't think people are like they were when you were young. You must make a show nowadays if you're going to stay in society. As Will says, if we don't trail along with the procession we'll get left at the post. I'm not sure that that's exactly the way he put it, but I know he means that if we didn't do as our friends do we wouldn't have any friends."

"Uh, huh," grunted the colonel. "It's a sort of an up to date version of the Golden Rule—spurge for others if you want others to spurge for you. I've got no particular quarrel with that if you can afford it. It helps to make business good. But I don't think you can afford it. Moreover, it don't make friends and it don't keep friends. Moreover, again, there ain't a bit of difference between the world now and when I was a boy, or when Julius Caesar was a boy, for that matter. It's always been that way, and I reckon it always will be that way. It's been a continuous procession from Adam's time down, and there's always been a lot of people fallin' over one another tryin' to keep the head of it in sight. "But there's a whole lot more, a great many more, now as well as then, who don't care a continental rap about keepin' up with the procession; most of 'em don't even know that there is a procession, and if they did they wouldn't take the trouble to go to the window to see it pass by, much less trail on behind the band wagon, for, honestly now, honey, what's the use? Does the procession ever get anywhere or do anything? Not on your life. It just prances around in a circle and blows its horn. It puts on a lot of style, to be sure, and it looks mighty gay with its ribbons and its feathers flyin', but the people that's on the outside watchin' it get more entertained out of it than the ones takin' part in it."

"But what else are we to do, papa?" interrupted his daughter. "You don't want us to stay at home all the time and wear our old clothes, do you?"

"No, sir-ee, little girl, and you know I don't. I want you to wear just as pretty dresses as you can afford and have all the fun that's comin' to you, but don't do things you've got no business to do just because other people do them, and don't imagine that you'll lose any friends if the procession gets away from you. Maybe some of the people you call your friends would get somethin' the matter with their eyes when you came along the street if you didn't put on as much style as they did, but that kind of cattle ain't the stuff that friends are made of. There's nothin' finer or sweeter in the world than a good friend, and the man or the woman that hasn't got real friends is mighty unfortunate, but you can't get 'em and you can't keep 'em by makin' a show, as you call it. Just try it by your own standard, for instance. Take the women that you like the best. Why do you like them? Is it because they wear fine clothes or live in big houses or give swell parties that you like them? No; you bet it ain't. It's because there's somethin' within them that's better than any show they could make if they had millions. And don't you suppose the same women love you for the same reason? Don't you suppose it's your character and not your dress that draws them to you? I'm mighty sure it is, and I'm also mighty sure that they'd keep on lovin' you, no matter whether you had your gowns made in Paris or by the little dressmaker around the corner. If they didn't, why, they wouldn't be friends. That's all there is to that.

They'd just be make believes, and h you lost 'em you wouldn't lose any- thing worth grievein' about.

"What I'm tryin' to get into your pretty little noggin—and, by the way, honey, I like that new way of fixin' your hair; it's mighty becomin'—but, as I was about to remark, the point I'm tryin' to get you to see is that fine feathers don't make fine friends, and you'll make a mighty big mistake if you think the only friends worth havin' are the ones that wear the gayest

raiment. You will find good, true friends, no doubt, in swell garb, but it ain't the clothes that make them so, for real friendship has nothin' to do with dress or position in life. It springs from qualities of the mind or the heart, which don't cost a red cent and which millions can't buy. "You can't have too many friends, my dear, but you've got to depend upon somethin' besides appearances to get them and to keep them. The friends that stick are the ones that love you for what you are, not for what you wear, and you'll find material for friends of that kind among the high and the low, the rich and the poor. Some of the best friends I've got don't know where the next dollar's to come from, and some of the others don't know what to do with their money, but they're all in the same boat in the matter of friendship, and any one of them would go through fire and water for me. I know, because I've tried them."

"But you can't make friends without doin' somethin' or bein' somethin' worthy of friendship, and you can't keep friends unless you give as much as you take—not in money, understand, but in friendly words and friendly deeds, in a little sympathy or a little help when it's needed, and particularly when it's badly needed. One friend that sticks, no matter what comes, whether you lead the procession or are trampled under its feet, is worth more than a thousand of those that pat you on the back when you're in the swim and forget you're on earth when trouble comes. When you've got friends you can count on, no matter what happens, you ought to hang on to 'em with a death grip, for there's nothin' more precious on earth except a good wife or a good husband and children. But you needn't be afraid of losin' 'em by fallin' to keep up appearances. The real ones, little girl, ain't lost in that way."

Unbelievable.

"Goah, I guess those city folks meant what they said when they told us that they came up here to get a good rest." "They're taking it easy, eh?" "Taking it easy? I should say they are. Would you believe it, not one of 'em has got out of bed before 6 o'clock any morning since they've been here."

—Detroit Free Press.

The Oxen

The oxen labor across the field, Shoulder to shoulder all day long The pace is slow, but the plow is strong. And stubble and tussock yield. The plowman halts as the sun goes down, And leaves his plow near the furrowed loam, Then slowly over the meadow brown He follows the oxen home. Side by side in their stanchions there The oxen stand at the close of day, Happy are they and free from care, Eating their evening hay. They have borne the yoke from sun to sun, Shoulder to shoulder in true accord, And now they reap, when the day is done, The laborer's just reward. From March "Farm Journal."

Raise a Pig

If you wish to own an auto that will travel fast and far, Raise a pig; If you have a dear desire for a splendid private car, Raise a pig; If your daughter yearns for jewels that will make a lurid blaze, Or your wife would be a leader where some other matron sways; If you wish to give up toiling and in comfort spend your days, There's a way—don't overlook it— Raise a pig. If you're sick of serving others and are longing for a change, Raise a pig; If you wish to gaze at wonders that are far away and strange, Raise a pig; If your son would like to squander money on a chorus girl, If you yearn to own a castle having walls inlaid with pearl, If your darling daughter wishes to be married to an Earl, There's a way—don't overlook it— Raise a pig.
